Well now that the election is over, and America has evidently spoken as to who they want to lead us for the next 4 years, it has become apparent that those that voted for this change, either are totally in the dark as to what the consequences of their actions will bring, not only on them, but the rest of us.

First we have to remember this, God is in control. And as such, He decides what is to become of any situation that show evidence of our accepting, or rejecting what He says is right and wrong.

In a nutshell, every choice we make concerning things that pertain to His direction for our lives, will be met with either blessing, or cursing.

What this past election cycle reveals, is the fact that those of us that voted for this man, would rather take the path of cursing, than blessing.

The reason for this is quite sim[le].

We have a man who is a supporter of just about every thing that God calls sin!! Yet, those that supported him, don't care. They just wanted to get rid of a man, that opposes those things that God calls sin.

And why is that???

Because they love doing things that God hates!!

And what do you think His response to their actions will be??

COVID-19, is one example.

People want to blame others for a problem that, in my opinion, was brought on by the ever increasing rejection of a man that God was using, as a catalyst, to reveal those that have evil intentions, but have kept them undercover, while portraying themselves as sheep, they are really wolves.

Time will tell just how much damage will come on them, and us. This could be a very bad year!!

When liberals talk about leveling the playing field, they don't mean lifting the less fortunate up to the levels of the wealthy.

What they mean is tearing the wealthy down to the level of the less fortunate.

When it comes to ministry, remember this.

A good education in the Bible is always a good thing. However, when it comes to ministry, God calls those that He chooses and not necessarily those that have been educated.

If we look at Jesus and His disciples, none of them were Bible scholars. If He wanted educated folk, He would have chosen some of the scribes and pharisees. But no, He chose ordinary men like fishermen, farmers, a doctor, and a tax collector.

Bottom line, God/Christ, prepares those He chooses, and not those that are prepared!!!

It is often the latter, that end up being the cause of our problems in the Church, and the world!!

Just because someone has a degree, or title [i.e. Reverend, Bishop, Apostle, Pope], does not mean they are anointed by God.

Far too many of us see a title or degree attached to a person, and right away, whatever they say, has to be coming from God when, a lot of instances, it is coming from themselves [the Devil]!! The result is what you see happening in the Church, this nation and the world.

Have you seen any good movies, or been to a concert, or maybe a symphony lately???

Do you have a job, or are you perchance an employer???

What do all of these have in common???

They all have people of all different colors, personalities, both genders, different ages and such, coming together for one single purpose, and that is to produce a final product, that meets the approval of the one that composed, or designed it!!

Each had a specific part, or instrument to play, and they adhered to that assignment, and the end result was a masterpiece.

Well, in like manner, God created the man and the woman to follow His design for the unit known as the family. The man has his part, and the woman, hers. As long as they both stay in the position/job/part they were assigned to, the family is blessed/rewarded by God, and prospers.

However when they choose to take on roles/positions/jobs they were not meant to be in, then the opposite occurs. This goes for positions in the Church as well. The man has a job to do, and so does the woman. When one decides they want to do the other's job, then, CHAOS, is the result.

You are going to be Blessed, when you stick to God's plan for your life, and not society's!!
